GC man killed on I-55-70

A Granite City man was killed early Tuesday when his truck crashed through a guardrail on Interstate 55-70 and fell 12 feet to the ground below.

Kay Souliueng, 29, was pronounced dead at the scene at 6:50 a.m. Tuesday by St. Clair County Deputy Coroner Dale Robinson.

Death was attributed to massive head trauma, Coroner Rick Stoll said.

Illinois State Police said two passengers in Souliueng's vehicle, Vonethachan Sirimanotham, 29, and Sweekham Khounsa, 33, both of Granite City, sustained minor injuries and were taken to St. Mary's Hospital in East St. Louis, Robinson said. They were admitted to the hospital and released.

Souliueng, of Laotian descent, was employed at Crown Manufacturing Corp., St. Louis, and apparently was en route to work at the time of the accident.

A spokesman for state police said Souliueng's truck was westbound on Interstate 55-70, about 30 feet east of Illinois 3 (St. Clair Avenue), when the vehicle spun out of con-troil, crossed over one lane and the highway shoulder and struck an eight-inch-high curb and the guardrail.

The truck broke through the guardrail and fell 12 feet to the ground, coming to a rest on the passenger side, with the front of the pickup facing south, about three feet north of a concrete wall, ISP authorities said.

Souliueng was taken to a Granite City funeral home, and private services are pending.

EPA plan includes 'digging up yards'

By Mike Myers
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency is coming back and this time it's for real.

The preliminary phases in the Superfund cleanup of the Taracorp lead-contamination are over, and things are expected to start happening.

"We are talking about people in funny-looking suits digging up yards," said the EPA's Brad Bradley.

Under a recommended clean-up plan, which Bradley said could begin by mid-1991, the EPA would be removing all the exposed soil from an approximately 55-block area surrounding the Taracorp site near the Granite City-Madison border and from Bradley's "Yard" where contaminated material was used as paving material and areas in Eagle Park where the material was used as fill.

The material would then be trucked to the Taracorp pile at 15th and State streets. Finally, the combined pile would be permanently sealed.

Most of the lead risk here comes through the smelter process, falling on the ground," Bradley said. "Samples of the area show the penetration of the lead to be very small. We don't anticipate more than 6 inches of soil will have to be removed."

Bradley said the combined pile will be covered with a sealant material, then clay, then topsoil and then planted over, leaving a grass-covered hill. He said the combined "cap" would have the effect of repelling water and running it away from the pile, keeping it from spreading the contamination to the groundwater.

"Actually, there has been little contaminant spread to date because of a clay layer located under the pile," Bradley said. "The clay has kept it from seeping into the groundwater."

Both the groundwater and air around the pile will continue to be monitored for contamination, Bradley said, and the cap over the pile will be inspected every five years.

"The way it works in actual practice is the cap will be checked very closely for the first couple of years and then it will go to the five-year plan," Bradley said.

"Protecting property values is always a concern to the EPA, Bradley said, and the attention a massive cleanup will bring to the area will not help property values."

"This is huge area that will be dug up," Bradley said. "It's something a lot of people will see every day for a long period. And then a big pile of contaminated material will be left on site."

"A lot of the other areas we have cleaned up have been small, maybe a single site, and then the material was taken elsewhere," he said. "The property value problems were different."

"Still, the area is contaminated now and what has that done to property values? A lot may depend on how the media cover the cleanup."

Bradley said the public perception of the site after cleanup will have a lot to do with its property values.

"At other similar sites, we have found that when people suddenly have fresh soil and nice, new sod, they paint and fix-up their houses. Maybe that will be the case here," he said.

Bradley said public comment is important and encouraged.

GRANITE CITY — Ending its second semester of operation in Granite City, the DARE anti-drug-abuse program graduated 311 students Jan. 9 in ceremonies at the Granite City High School auditorium.

Students from each of the five schools that participated in the DARE program graduated with a certificate and a diploma about the program and what it taught them.

"I've learned that I need to take control of my body and my emotions," said Sarah Patterson of Frohardt School.

"We learned about taking a stand," said Amy Gillison of Lake School.

"I can do many things with my life — I don't have to do drugs," said Becky Hansel of Marshall School.

"I learned that I need to be physically strong, mentally awake and morally straight," said Jarrod Duffield of Marymont School.

"I think the DARE program should stay at Parkview and the other lucky schools that have it," said Jason Hall of Parkview School.

Pronouncing the program a "great success," DARE committee chairman Monroe Worthen introduced dignitaries in attendance, including U.S. Rep. Jerry Costello, state Rep. Sam Wolf and Mayor

Von Dee Cruise.

The speaker for the day's events was Master Sgt. Vic Morris of the Illinois State Police.

"This is your culmination. Culmination means reaching the top, and you have," Morris told the students.

"The DARE program started in Illinois in 1986 in 86 schools with 8,600 students. Now, just three years later, it's in 835 schools and reaches 80,000 students," he said.

"Some people ask us why fifth and sixth graders for the program. It's because we've learned that the decisions you make in the next year or so will effect

Wife's trip for groceries includes use of squad car

By Valerie Evender
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — The next time Marvin Dixon's wife goes for groceries she won't take a squad car.

A police car from Pine Lawn, Mo., attracted some attention Tuesday when it was spotted near East 24th and Kate streets about 6 p.m.

But local police soon discovered it wasn't a case of "Car 54, where are you?"

A Pine Lawn Police Department dispatcher, permanent, who declined to give his name, said Dixon does the mechanical work on Pine Lawn police cars.

Dixon test-drove one of those vehicles home Tuesday and parked it at his residence in the 2500 block of East 25th Street. The problem developed when Dixon's wife decided to take the marked squad car one block to the Corner Market, 2501 E. 24th Street. A Granite City police officer saw the car and questioned her when she came out of the store.

After the woman told the Granite police officer of the circumstances, she was allowed to return home.

Pine Lawn police were notified by telephone that their vehicle was in Granite City, but they apparently knew, according to a source, Granite City Police Chief Ron Selph. He said there were no charges filed.

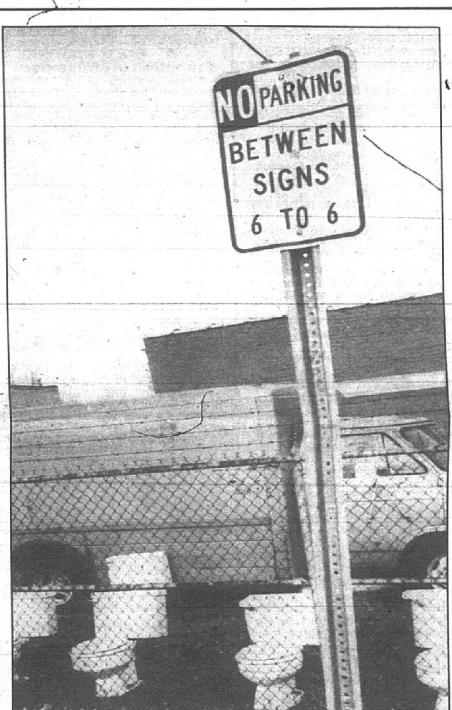

Neither Dixon nor his wife could be reached for comment.

stable condition late Wednesday.

Douglas had apparently driven the car east along the tracks and struck a vehicle from the Bend Road crossing. He was seated in the vehicle on the tracks when it was struck.

Union Pacific police are conducting their own investigation, and Douglas is believed to be an employee of Union Pacific.

'DUMB' AWARD CANDIDATE — A sign on 17th Street near Madison Avenue tells motorists very little, with no a.m. or p.m. reference and no second sign in the vicinity. And its comical aspect is heightened by its location next to a row of toilets at Joe's Sewer and Drain Service, a new tenant in a nearby building.

County splits on waste plan

By John Milazzo
Staff writer

EDWARDSVILLE — The Madison County Board failed Wednesday to agree on a "short-term" solid waste management plan.

Several county officials said they now doubt that the Village of Roxana can be supported by the proposed short-term plan.

The short-term plan was presented to the board by its Environmental Control Committee. Two members of the committee, Frederick "Bee" Heepke, R-Edwardsville, and Donald Rea, D-Granite City, voted against it.

Many board members and some reporters left the meeting after the resolution that the short-term plan be approved was voted down.

City and county commissioners voted to adjournment that while the resolution to accept the plan passed with a simple majority of 13-12, a two-thirds vote was needed to ratify it.

The short-term plan, which was to get official county board approval at its February meeting, was viewed as a means of denying Roxana authority to approve an expansion at the landfill, located north of Edwardsville and owned by Laidlaw Waste Systems Inc. The board had a series of public hearings on the proposed expansion has been scheduled by Roxana for April 3.

A county long-range plan that had been the subject of a six-month hearing and amendment process could not be brought to a vote Wednesday because it is subject to further public hearings.

The board will take up the long-range report and recommendations compiled for the county by the East-West Gateway Coordinating Council.

"Through each and every one of you we will drive the drug dealers out of business," he said.

Morris also offered congratulations to the community in his speech: "I salute you, Granite City. You have quite a program and quite an officer."

Granite City bakers, facing flour prices increasing up to $7, a barrel, have decided to shrink the size of a loaf of bread by weighting out one pound of dough, leaving 14 ounces of baked bread. Previously, 18 ounces of dough were used to give the customer a pound loaf of baked bread.

Man's parole revoked

The parole of a Madison man was revoked and his man was sentenced to a weapons charge after several guns were found in a truck he was driving.

Harold Leroy Dunnivant, 28, of the 1100 block of State Street, Madison, alleged to be a convicted felon, was ordered to serve 18 months in the Madison County State's Attorney's Office for further investigation, following his arrest at 7 p.m. Jan. 8 outside a liquor store in the 2500 block of Nameoki Road.

Dunnivant was later booked on a felony warrant charging unlawful possession of a firearm by a felon and also a parole revocation warrant.

He appeared Jan. 11 at the Granite City court and was transferred to the Madison County Jail in Edwardsville.

When arrested into custody, Dunnivant was standing beside a pickup truck in the liquor store parking lot with a woman relative, Barbara Jean Dunnivant, 23, of the 700 block of 27th Place.

Barbara Dunnivant was subsequently charged with a weapons charge and with not having a firearm owner identification card. She was released upon posting $200 bail.

Another person who was seen in the vehicle had left the area just before police arrived, officers were told.

Unlawfully recovered from the truck were a 40-gauge shotgun, a blue steel rifle with a wood stock, a .303-caliber blue steel rifle and a .22-caliber semi-automatic rifle.

Two of the rifles and the shotgun were found near the truck and the third rifle was behind the police said.

Harold Dunnivant told police the guns were old Army weapons that belonged to a friend.

Lighted sign smashed

Vandals smashed both sides of a large lighted business sign valued at $1,000 at Kendall Appliance, 2740 Madison Ave., it was reported Jan. 9 by the owner, Haril V. Kendall.

Several large rocks were found inside the lighted sign, which was suspended on the west side of the structure. The building had suffered damage earlier, apparently done by vandals, and graffiti had been painted on the rear wall.

Burglar takes gun, boots

A shotgun and hunting decoys were among the loot taken in the burglary of a camper truck, it was reported Jan. 8 by Robbie L. Grier of the 1700 block of Grand Avenue.

Moving from the truck were a 12 gauge Remington shotgun valued at $475, 24 magnesium geese decoys worth $423, expedition boots valued at $150, two brown long gun cases worth $40, four rounds of shotgun shells worth $40, a three-bottle bottle worth $25, a tool box worth $25 and assorted tools, including wrenches, socket sets, screwdrivers and a soldering gun valued at $26.

$1,431 motor missing

A 350 horsepower General Motors short-block auto engine worth $1,431 was stolen from its packing crate in the rear of a garage at Woodrow Oldsmobile, 1600 Madison Ave., it was discovered Jan. 8. The thief placed two bags of floor cleaner inside the crate as a replacement.

Reports purse, $320 gone

Valerie R. Paasch of the 2400 block of Missouri Avenue reported her purse apparently fell out of her car when the driver's door flew open while she was turning onto 21st Street from Madison Avenue Jan. 9. Inside the gray purse was a $320, miscellaneous papers and a checkbook.

Four injured on Illinois 3

GRANITE CITY — A two-vehicle crash on Illinois 3 sent four persons in ambulances to St. Elizabeth Medical Center at 4:50 p.m. Jan. 12.

The southbound auto of Muhammed A. Huneidi, 28, of Glen Carbon struck a moving car which was turned left onto West 20th Street from the southbound lanes of the highway.

Charles T. Watkins, 20, of the 2700 block of Washington Avenue was operating the Atlas Van Lines truck.

Watkins and a passenger in his van, Oscar T. Hooker Jr., 44, of St. Louis were injured and taken to SEMC by ambulance.

Huneidi and a passenger in his auto, Najit Alihassan, 21, of Edwardsville also were hurt and transported to the medical center.

Watkins was charged with failure to yield at an intersection and Huneidi was ticketed for illegal transportation of alcohol.

Correction on cab driver

VENICE — An unoccupied Rainbow taxicab stolen from the Greater Venice in Madison was found by Alfred Homan of Checker Cab Co., 2810 Nameoki Road, at the rear of Blair School, 1047 College Ave., Venice, where the cab had struck a fence Jan. 7. A previous item identified Homan as being driver for Rainbow Taxi. We regret the error.

Auxiliary police to expand

GRANITE CITY — A move to beef up Granite City's Auxiliary Police force was announced Friday by Coordinator Louise Wade of the ESDA (Emergency Services and Disaster Agency).

The auxiliary unit is a vital element in the city's ESDA, formerly civil defense, and also aids police department personnel in performing some tasks, she said.

"I'd like to see an auxiliary force develop," Wade said. Current strength of the unit is about 22 members.

Men and women, 19 years old and over, are being encouraged to apply for auxiliary police membership, the coordinator said.

Anyone with a Granite City mailing address, including residents of Pontoon Beach, Mitchell and rural areas, can apply.

Applications are available at the Granite City Police Department, 2334 Madison Ave., from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Candidates will be trained by certified police officers in the use of firearms during a 40-hour course, Wade said.

Other training will consist of first-aid, CPR (cardio pulmonary resuscitation), use of emergency vehicles, radio operations, emergency response and traffic control.

Auxiliary officers currently are participating in a "ride-along" program in which they ride with police department members. This training enables auxiliary members to better understand procedures during actual emergency situations, Wade said.

Applicants should be high school graduates or have a GED (general education development) equivalency certificate. Each must have a valid driver's license.

Background checks of prospective candidates will be made and fingerprints will be accepted, Wade said.

Persons who have mechanical aptitude and are willing to help with the maintenance of equipment would be an especially welcome addition at this time, she said.

Auxiliary officers supplement police officers by assisting during all types of disasters and emergencies when additional trained persons are essential. The auxiliary also helps police officers with traffic control at high school football and basketball games and at other functions when large crowds are present.

Taxicab runs over foot

William M. Hunter, 15, of the 2000 block of Beckwith Avenue in Madison was injured Jan. 13 when a taxicab ran over his foot. Witnesses reported Hunter was one of several people attempting to prevent two passengers in a cab in the 2000 block of Meridian Street from leaving.

Chester Cab driver Henry Ledbetter of Granite City said he drove away from the curb when the passengers requested him to do so, unaware that he had run over anyone's foot. Hunter was treated at St. Elizabeth Medical Center.

Auto burglar takes cash

David Block of St. Louis reported Jan. 14 that a burglar had broken into his car parked in the 1900 block of Benton Street and taken an envelope containing $200 from the glove compartment.

The class is open to the community. Participants will learn basic life support Course A (one-rescuer adult CPR and adult obstructed airway). Cost is $5 per person. Pre-registration is required at 796-3WEL.

Pro-lifers plan annual trip

ST. LOUIS — Bi-state area anti-abortionists are organizing their annual bus pilgrimage from Granite City to Washington D.C. on Saturday, Feb. 10-11, 1990 for Life on Jan. 22.

The demonstration marks the anniversary of the 1973 Supreme Court decision legalizing abortion. The 1990 march is the first since the Supreme Court's July ruling giving states the opportunity to enact more restrictive abortion regulations.

The bus caravan is scheduled to leave at 9:30 a.m. Sunday from the steps of the Arch on the St. Louis riverfront. The group will return to St. Louis about 3 p.m. Tuesday.

Round-trip fare is $85 and approximately $35 will be needed for meals. There is no lodging expense since the group does not stay overnight, said a spokesman at (314) 721-6313 and (314) 521-3434.

Ingersoll sells 4 papers

PRINCETON, N.J. — Ingersoll Publications Co. has announced that it has sold four of the smaller community newspapers in its chain and reached an agreement in principle to sell a fifth small paper.

The papers sold to American Publishing Co. for an undisclosed amount were the Tonawanda News in North Tonawanda, N.Y. (circulation 13,800), the Transcript in North Adams, Mass. (circulation 10,000), the School-Standard in Ionia, Mich. (circulation 4,100), and the South Haven Daily Tribune in South Haven, Mich. (circulation 2,100).

The company also has agreed to sell the Courier-Tribune in Asheboro, N.C. (circulation 17,900), to Donrey Media Group, also for an undisclosed sum. That transaction is scheduled to close about Feb. 1.

Robert M. Jelenic, Ingersoll president and chief operating officer, said, "The firm's recent purchase of the New Haven Register for $255 million and our start-up of the new daily St. Louis Sun as well as our recent major investment in three newspapers in Dublin, Ireland, are examples of Ingersoll's future direction."

Baker a winner at Don's

John Baker of Granite City was the winner of $500 in holiday cash in a recent presentation held at Don's Hardware at 1839 Delmar Ave. in Granite City.

The winning name was determined by Mayor Von Dee Cruse. Owner Don Caughron thanked everyone for all the names received and wished everyone a happy and safe New Year.

PONTOON BEACH — Although municipal leaders continue to delay a feasibility study for the St. Louis Aquacenter, the center's director says the village remains his first choice. "We are continuing to look at different places but we are not seeking a replacement for Pontoon Beach," said Leonard Sonnenchein, the Aquacenter's main promoter.

"Pontoon Beach has put up the property and evidence of funding and we are ready to go with the survey," Sonnenchein said.

Last week, a majority of trustees voted to continue delaying issuance of bonds for infrastructure work in Phase II of the Clinton Trace Redevelopment Project for the Aquacenter feasibility study are to be included in the Tax Increment Financing bond issue. The study is estimated at $50,000.

Mayor Glen Wilson said the village board's action could jeopardize the Aquacenter. "This can cost a lot of money," Wilson said.

Hold up the bonds until a final audit of village funds and of Phase II is received not only delayed financing of the marketing feasibility survey, but it halted construction on the third phase of the redevelopment area.

A preliminary audit presented to the board on Jan. 9, but trustees voted to delay the Phase III section, which includes a home for the developmentally disabled, a residential area and a proposed nursing home.

Omni Bank of Pontoon Beach, which is in the TIF District, voted to postpone the start of construction, said the mayor.

"The (Omni) bank has received its charter and will start soon. This is wrong (to delay) but it's up to the board," Wilson said.

Stan Lucas of BTL Enterprises, which is developing the Clinton Trace area, took the board's action in stride, although the large-scale development has been stopped dead for the time being.

Phase III has been authorized and is a necessary step to complete the project, including more infrastructure work, widening of Engineer Road, installation of sewers and water lines adjacent to Long Lake and the possible feasibility study.

"I would not expect to get money if it's (the Aquacenter) not going to be located here," Lucas said. "If Sonnenchein's (gone), and right now we don't know what's happening, I wouldn't want to spend that money," Lucas said.

Sonnenchein said he wants to proceed but is not pushing them. They have to want us," Sonnenchein said.

"If the survey is started we can go to the state and get the state's OK on terms of bond financing. We have a proven financial capability and we can prove that I am fairly confident we can retire the (bond) debt," Lucas said.

Others at the Jan. 9 meeting weren't as patient with the delay as Sonnenchein or Lucas.

Stanley Mikolaszuk, a resident, became exasperated with the inaction and told the mayor to come here and listen to some people saying "no" and some saying "yes." I'm getting tired of it. Let's get something built here," Mikolaszuk said.

"We are in competition with other developments and this is the one that acts first," Lucas said.

"I don't see anything in the preliminary audit to prevent us from authorizing bond issuance.

"We have car dealers looking and developers looking at the other side of the road and

Balance needed on board

In seeking a legal ruling on how school board members should be elected, the District 9 Board of Education has properly moved a political hot potato out of the board room and into the court room where it belongs.

At issue is whether board members should be elected "at large" — that is, from anywhere in the school district — or if they must be elected based on residency in incorporated/unincorporated areas. "At large" elections would be better.

Prior to last November's school election, several candidates told us that the method for electing board members was unfair. Currently, at least two of the seven members on the board must reside in unincorporated areas of the school district. Taken at face value, that means 23.5 percent of the board must live in non-incorporated areas.

But does that reflect the population of the district? Do almost one-third of the District 9 students live outside of a municipal boundary? We find this unlikely, although the school district couldn't tell us the exact numbers. However, with the expansion of Granite City and Pontoon Beach in the last several years, there is obviously a lot less unincorporated area than there was.

So, as the potential for eligible candidates from the unincorporated sector decreases, it begins to make more sense to elect candidates from the district as a whole. Theoretically the residential factor should not be a part of the educational decision-making process anyway, though the problems of some areas are indeed different than others. Busing, for one.

The District 9 school board has directed its attorney to seek a declaratory judgment on the way the board is elected. To avoid appearances of politics, members waited until after the election to pursue this, which was wise.

Now that the issue has been generated, the board should waste no time seeing it to a proper conclusion.

Time vital to stadium plan

The convention center/stadium proposal in downtown St. Louis has focused in mid-January on opposition by City Comptroller Virvus Jones, but the issue is much broader than one individual.

The plan calls for a minority role of at least 15 percent in the construction; Jones favors 40 percent. Whether 15, 40 or some figure in between eventually prevails, it is important that the project be preserved.

If Jones succeeds in delaying signing checks and contracts on this and a number of other city expenses, it seems likely that the courts will authorize an alternate signature by some other official; an unwillingness to act is not unsolvable.

What is important is that St. Louis County voters approve doubling the 3.5-percent hotel-motel tax there in an election this winter, and that St. Louis aldermen authorize city participation in the stadium plan, which does not involve a city tax increase.

In a nutshell, payments on the project's construction bonds would be limited to $20 million annually for up to 30 years, the state paying $10 million annually and St. Louis city and county each paying $5 million a year. In addition:

• The state, city and county would provide a total of $4 million annually for a special fund to maintain the convention center. The state would agree to give half the amount, with the city and county splitting the balance.

• The St. Louis Regional Convention and Sports Complex Authority, an 11-member state agency, would be created to buy the land, construct the project and issue the bonds.

The sports authority would own the 175,000-square-foot stadium/convention addition.

• The St. Louis Convention and Visitors Commission would promote, market and manage the entire convention center, including the stadium addition and 916,000 square feet of convention space that will be completed by 1982.

It all sounds compliant, but the key facts are:

(1) There is three-way agreement on the financing and operation of a large convention center complete with a 70,000-seat enclosed arena.

(2) Such facilities not only could house football and other sports events but also could enable St. Louis to compete for the nation's largest meetings, tournaments, conventions and concerts.

A united effort is vital at this key point in time. It should be remembered that all ideas, no matter how good, are vulnerable to excessive passage of time.

Love of God, not of country

I love the U.S., but I hate the country.

Country and western, that is — the endless twang that rakes the rod on some of our well-heeled southern Illinois watering holes.

They call this music? Why?

Yeah, there is melody, and, yeah, there are lyrics. Such lyrics:

"My baaaaabeecee loves me more than llllllllfiffie!"

Songwriters must be in demand.

What can you say about an art form that gave birth to "I'm Gonna Get a Wino to Decorate Our Home"?

Just to show you how easy it is to write country-western lyrics I've come up with a few samples of some of you just might hear one of these days, given the natural tendency of a good idea to repeat itself.

Try this one on for size:

"I Didn't Know We Were Out of Town Until My Timex Fell Down Your Love Seat."

Or how about this one for the warring couple: "The Little Things You Do Bother Me in a Big, Big Way."

Or the man who doesn't necessarily care about his wife's looks: "My Honey's a Porker, But How I Love Spare Ribs."

Or for the man who has everything: "My Baby, My Barstool and Me."

Henry Mancini, eat your heart out.

Sometimes I think the writer

thinks of the title, then writes the words, then gets the music to fit. I don't see where this process really makes much difference, because most of the time the music is too loud, you can't understand the words, and the titles are ridiculous.

You want to hear a song about a man who really wants to impress his woman? How about: "You Jump Start My Heart Like No Everlasting Coal."

Want to impress, but can't think of how? Try: "The Small of Your Back, The Big of Your Nose."

There are a legion of C&W fans out there who will tell me that I don't have to watch the Nashville stars and don't have to visit any of our local saloons. To them, I say: OK.

And while I don't like country-western music, I do like country-western people. They're a lot more sincere than operators and a lot less trouble than the IRS.

Of course, after today, that might change.

Dennis Grubaugh is managing editor of the Press-Record.

Nameoki wasting money on street patch jobs

To the editor:

Here we go again. Pontoon Beach's yearly "let's fill in the cracks" job. Get real, people; the tarring that is done to fill in the cracks on the streets does not do the job.

All it does is create havoc. I'm a homeowner, one of just a handful who keep their curb clean. During pleasant weather I wash down my curb and a portion of the street in front of my home "with extreme caution."

I have fallen a couple of times on the tar-glazing and got wet. It's dangerous, not to mention the mess it makes in the house. When hot weather arrives the tar tends at times to get sticky and it has been brought in on the shoes.

I'm told the tar is to fill in the cracks so that, when it freezes, water and snow won't get down under the pavement and tear it up.

The tar itself cracks and in the same spot where a crack was in the first place. Not to mention, it also looks tacky.

Why don't Nameoki Township officials stop wasting their taxpayers' money on useless jobs such as this and use it for keeping streets and curbs clean and not just a once-over once a year.

If the curbs were kept clean a lot of rock and water would break up into the streets and create damage. Instead, the water would flow down the curbing into the storm drain where it should.

'Thanks' for successful Christmas campaign

To the editor:

To the citizens of the Granite City area:

We at the Salvation Army would like to say a great big thank you to each one of you for helping us reach our Christmas Tree of Lights fund-raising goal of $30,000.

Each time you dropped a dollar into one of our red kettles, or mailed a contribution to our office, you were putting good food on the table of a family in our neighborhoods, or providing a toy under a child's Christmas tree.

You were buying gifts for residents of area nursing homes, and providing cash to help with other needs in our community.

The simple words, "Thank you," just don't seem to say enough about how important your help is.

You see, without your help, we could not exist. We would not be here to help the children whose daddy just lost his job, or the family which doesn't have a house anymore due to a fire.

We would not have the resources to provide medicine for the elderly and sick, food for the hungry, clothing for those who might be cold.

You may not have known it, but when you reached your hand into your pocket and dropped that donation into the red kettle, you were doing all of those things, and much more.

For your help, we hope you will except sincere thanks from all of us. God bless you all.

Car emissions don't equal industrial pollution

To the editor:

It's Saturday morning at 11 and I have just returned home after spending two hours taking three of my five cars to the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency's Vehicle Emission Testing Station.

I didn't mind doing this once a year if I thought it would make a difference. I must do this because I live in an area high in pollution. People in surrounding areas are not subject to the testing, so they may continue to drive their vehicles regardless of the condition. This, I do mind.

Everyone should be subjected to these tests, since people in surrounding areas drive their cars into Granite City, Saugat, Wood River, etc.

However, this doesn't make me half as mad as I sit here and realize how much pollution I have seen while working as a construction worker for the past 20 years in places such as Saugat, Elwood and Alton in Saugat, and the Shell Refinery in Wood River.

I have spent probably 17 of my 20 years in construction in industrial plants such as the benzene unit and probably in other units. Possibly this will help. Shell will remedy some of the problems.

The pressure on these industrial plants must be kept up. If not, the companies will eventually slack off on safety.

Shell must continue to think safety and must continue to maintain the equipment with the maintenance staff in the plant.

The maintenance staff is very well qualified and keeps everything in top working order during the past few months. Shell has been using maintenance personal to do work that was formerly done by "outside" construction workers.

I hope that other things in the plant have been maintained at this same time, and that this isn't the reason for the recent accidents and problems. Only by regularly checking valves, pipelines, and all other equipment, and monitoring all activity, will these plants be safe.

These industrial plants are all a necessity, but they must be controlled in relation to pollution and safety, no matter what the costs.

If the public has to bear some of the costs in higher prices, so be it.

We must protect our environment and we must demand laws that include everyone from the Little Old Lady in her VW, to the powerful chemical plants like Monsanto and Shell.

Teen-agers need a stopping-off point

To the editor:

In regard to the meeting held Jan. 3 on plans to rehabilitate the East Granite neighborhood, I was quoted in the Press-Record as saying that the city should use Webster School as a Teen Town.

What I meant was that the city should tear down the school, turn it into a park and build a small building for a Teen Town in East Granite.

It could have a juke box for teen-agers to get together and dance.

It could have candy and soda machines. There could be a small fee to help pay for the utilities.

Something else, let's get a few caring parents to supervise the teen-agers and clean up after them.

I am willing to do so myself. We still have a lot of good kids around.

People in taverns have fights, but it does not close the taverns. Do as taverns do: Call the police and have the fighters thrown out or put in jail. There are still new liquor licenses being sold every year.

A park district guard could help out at a Teen Town, also.

My family loves the East Granite area. We have good neighbors who take care of all the fields. We get good service from the city. Do unto others as you would have them do unto you, and everyone will get along better.

Teen-agers can't smoke at school. Teachers can't drink, but many go home to it. So, give our kids a break, too.

Give them a Teen Town, the kind of teen-age center they were promised years back.

Neighbors of Taracorp anxious for state hearing on lead cleanup

By Andy Siering
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — Lisa Felton has something to tell the EPA and can hardly wait until Feb. 8.

"If something isn't done, I'm going to get an attorney," said the woman as she stared across State Street at the hazardous Taracorp lead pile.

Lisa, her husband Bill and other neighbors have lived in the shadow of fear for several years, ever since learning of the hazards in their midst. At 7 p.m. Feb. 8 they'll get the chance to say something when the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency holds a public hearing at Granite City Township Hall to solicit comments on the lead pile in the 1500 block of State Street.

The U.S. EPA said a soil and lead-mile radius of the Taracorp site contains triple the amount of lead allowed under federal standards. A 250,000-ton pile of lead waste at the site measures 40 times the federal limit.

The EPA also said several alleys in Venice are contaminated with lead used as paving filler years ago. The agency recommends consolidating all the lead contamination in an area into the Taracorp pile, according to the area.

State and federal officials have known since 1982 that high lead levels existed in the area. Taracorp was found to be the primary source of airborne lead pollution in the area. The company filed for bankruptcy in December 1982 after it was denied a permit for lead smelting.

Opponents of toxic waste repositories usually suggest some sort of at least, to an attitude that many call the NIMBY syndrome: "Not In My Back Yard."

Proponents of gathering together the millions of tons of various toxic wastes — and thus reducing the hazard to those who could be affected by living near the wastes — criticize those who subscribe to the NIMBY mindset.

Opponents of the Taracorp site, with no end in sight, of 1,224 sites on the Superfund list of sites to be cleaned up, just 27 have been cleaned up. Critics, in Congress and out, call the program a fiasco.

Just about everybody, seemingly, thinks something should be done about hazardous waste sites, but apparently nobody can agree what.

Part of the problem is how to choose various methods of cleanup with the costs involved.

Do you just call it off somewhere, at tremendous expense? And what community will take it, in light of the NIMBY syndrome? Or do you cordon off the area and surround the wastes with a more-or-less impermeable barrier, at considerable lesser cost?

The EPA's estimates cleanup costs at the Taracorp site as high as $50 million.

Lisa Felton lives in the 1400 block of State and will have plenty to say at the hearing.

"I'm furious about it," Felton said. She seethes while the politicians and bureaucrats debate.

"It's in my front yard!" she said.

She and her husband, Bill, have lived at 1406 State St. since 1974. She recently had a tumor removed from one lung, and she thinks it might have been caused by exposure to lead, although she said her doctors told her it wasn't.

"It's unfair to the people," Felton said. "I don't think the city should be sued. I think the company should be sued."

In fact, the company that operated the smelter previously, NL Industries, has been sued by the U.S. and Illinois EPAs. The vast majority of the pile was accumulated under past ownership.

Under an agreement between NL Industries and the environmental agencies, the company commissioned an investigation by an outside consulting firm. The investigation concluded that the lead pile is a public health risk.

The environmental agencies rejected the report.

Taracorp Inc., which purchased the company from NL Industries, lost its state permit for lead smelting in 1982, after it was found by the EPA to be the primary source of airborne lead pollution.

The company still is in business, but it no longer is smelting. It has about 100 employees, said General Manager Tony Lindsay. It recasts lead into various forms, he said.

The Feltons own their house and a business next door. They wonder if they'll be able to sell either when it comes time to retire.

"Look what we've got tied up here," Lisa Felton said. "All of a sudden we find out this (the lead pile) is here. ... I'd like to spend a few more years in peace and quiet, but it doesn't look like it's going to be here," she said.

The problem is, who would buy it?

"You can't sell the property, no matter how many improvements you've made," she said.

The EPA took soil samples from the Feltons' property. Lisa Felton would not say what the agency found, but said the results were "enough to make me furious."

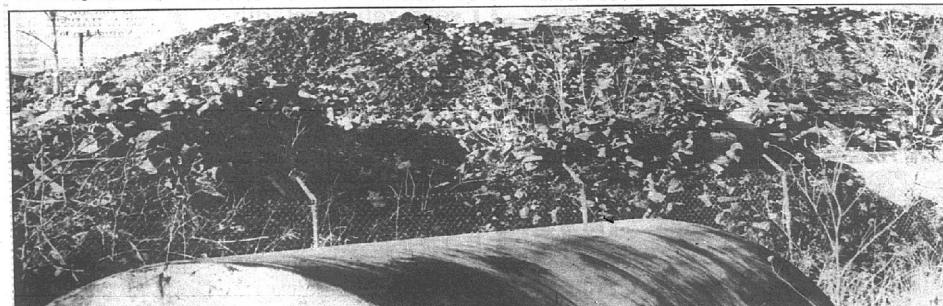

Bill Felton used to grow produce in a garden on the property. He's afraid to now. He points to several trees in the front of his property. They appear to be stunted and growing crooked.

"I'm afraid to plant anything on there," he said. He wonders if lead contamination is to blame.

Never mind the trees, said Lisa. "How much damage has the lead done to us in 15 years?"

And she points out that her neighbors have two small children. The EPA said exposure to lead can cause anemia and behavioral disorders in children, and may prevent the brain from developing.

The federal and state EPAs rejected two blood-level studies of nearby residents conducted by the Department of Public Health. The studies found no unacceptable lead levels. But the agencies said the studies of 97 residents did not include enough people and were conducted at the wrong time of year — winter, when children play less outside.

Governor convinced his 13 years have been lucky and good for public

Presenting an annual "state of the state" address is a challenging and important task involving not only a review of the past but also an outline of the future.

When Jim Thompson stood before the Illinois General Assembly at Springfield on Jan. 10, it was his 14th and last such assignment.

The annual state of the state is good, he concluded, but lawmakers need to stand tall this year and cast courageous, perhaps unpopular, votes.

IT WAS A HIGHLY emotional occasion for the former United States attorney who rose to fame by successfully prosecuting a former Illinois governor, Otto Kerner.

A big man physically, with an equally big understanding of how to succeed in politics, Thompson is retiring undefeated but not unversed.

He possibly could have won a fifth term in 1990, but he chose not to try, content in the fact that even four-term governors are a rarity. Illinois has had only one — "Big Jim" Thompson.

THE BEST AND WORST attributes of the governor depend on one's viewpoint. Some people detected an occasional tendency to modify his stands based on the perceived majority public opinion. On the other hand, many would say this is a good trait, that a public official should be responsive to voters' ideas.

Another negative could be his heavy reliance on varied bond plans that have increased the state's debt.

Still another would be the fact that a number of his department heads got into procedural or ethical entanglements and resigned. But none of the semi-scandals reached the chief executive himself.

HIGHEST MARKS for Thompson ran into his own performance in office. The state functioned fairly well, despite a recession through much of the 1980s.

If highways needed to be built, particularly in Metro West, they were built rapidly. Many "Build Illinois" infrastructure improvements were made.

With prisons bulging at the seams, more prisons were constructed, even though a lot of people argued against this as failing to root out the causes of crime.

STRONG EMPHASIS in last week's 74-minute talk was placed on garbage, trash collection, recycling, incinerators and landfills. The problem is worsening and Illinoisans and their leaders need to face it head-on, he said.

Thompson called on legislators to deal forthrightly with such enduring dilemmas as the environmental waste, care, education and transportation. He urged "gutsy" action rather than trying to take politically safe positions.

Of course, that's easy for him to say. If he stays in public office, it is more likely to be by appointment than by election, so why not "tell it like it is"?

SEEING MUCH PROGRESS since he took office after the 1976 election, the governor stresses that much can still be accomplished in 1990.

"I am in the battle till the end," he told senators and representatives.

"We were sent here to govern, to lead, to work, to do in the same partisan yet cooperative manner that has brought us so far forward."

He urged that each legislator muster all the political will and courage to confront and solve Illinois issues.

"The problems we face in the '90s don't lend themselves to a quick fix," he said.

"WE CAN COMPROMISE on a fair method of distributing state dollars to local schools or we can risk being saddled with an unacceptable method designed to avoid some wrongdoing."

"We can improve our health-care delivery system back to good health, or watch it wither."

A monetary squeeze has plagued Thompson since early in the past decade.

The fiscal 1990-91 budget also will be tight, preventing much thought of bold new approaches.

LURKING in the background is a temporary two-year state income tax increase that will either have to be extended or ended. An extra billion dollars was plugged into state revenue last summer.

"Any new initiatives that cost money will be paid for by new money."

"What you have already put into law will take every penny we now have," he warned.

Obviously faced with accusations that he has been "tax happy," Thompson said the state now takes a smaller share of taxpayers' income than when he took office 13 years ago.

THE UNVARNISHED TRUTH can be heard from children and officials who are about to retire. It's not surprising that Big Jim's remarks are somewhat more abrasive than usual.

Bankers who make impressive salaries but fail to manage other people's money appropriately are not among Thompson's favorites.

He contrasted them with "underpaid young people" who staff the widely-assailed Department of Commerce and Community Affairs and strive hard to foster economic development throughout the state.

He defended his frequent flying, saying, "I've led nine Asian trade missions. The vouchers will add up to around $500,000 but that investment led to $50 million in new tax revenue from the Diamond-Star Motors plant in Bloomington."

HIS LEAST FAVORITE citizen is the fellow who doesn't want to get involved in protecting the environment. Thompson is convinced that a little bit more participation by the average citizen is essential if our democracy is going to succeed in future decades and generations.

As he sees it: "We need to act on our environment, including the economy now, or choke on it later."

Bill Winter is chief copy editor of the Press-Record/Journal.

Superfund examined

The $1.6 billion Superfund established by Congress in 1980 was amended in 1986 to increase the fund to $8.5 billion and to strengthen controls on liability for polluters.

Superfund has three basic provisions.

First, a tax on chemical manufacturers to create the fund.

Second, federal authority over places contaminated with toxic chemicals.

Third, legal presumption of "joint and several liability." This means, theoretically, that any company that contributed even one barrel of toxic to a site can be found liable for the cost of the cleanup.

Cleanup can be financed directly from the fund, with the costs to be reclaimed later from the liable companies through lawsuits. Or, if the companies cooperate, costs can be recovered in advance.

Residents living near Superfund sites tend to want every bit of the contamination cleaned up. The most thorough method is an expensive proposition that virtually all the experts say would quickly deplete the fund. This is the most expensive solution.

For economic reasons, the EPA tends to favor what it calls "cap and contain" — packing clay and synthetic materials around the site to keep it from contaminating the surrounding environment. This is the cheapest solution.

Between these extremes are a number of experimental options such as chemical-munching microbes, and "washing," deluging a site with water and treating the runoff. These options don't apply to all sites and types of contamination.

The EPA is under pressure from the press and Congress to reduce the number of sites still on the Superfund list. It is under pressure to come from local residents and environmental groups to keep sites clean all the sites.

The two goals are incompatible.

What will be done with lead pollution at and surrounding the Taracorp site may well wind up being a balancing act somewhere between those two extremes.

Bride 1990 — for

Romance, traditions sweep bridal fashion

By Lucyann Boston

Think spring, think romance, think weddings.

And maybe 1990 is a year when brides and maidens and the men in their lives are destined to look as if they had stepped out of a picture book.

"Basically, the bride sees that she's one day to be her most romantic self," says Betty Dinn, fashion director of Neiman-Marcus in Plaza Frontenac.

This is reflected in a return to traditional silhouettes including romantic, full-skirted gowns, trim with lace, pearls and iridescence, she says.

Traditional looks are showing up in a variety of gowns, says Betty Deal, director of design for Bridal Originals, a local manufacturer firm in Collinsville, Ill., that ships gowns throughout the country.

"We're going back to very elegant lace and lots of traditional looks, very simple gowns as well as very elaborate gowns," Deal says.

"The average age of a bride today is 23 and the groom is 25. In the not-so-distant past, the average bride was 18 or 19," Deal adds.

"The fact that they are older means they have their own, very definite ideas of what they want. Very often they pay for the gowns themselves. Gown prices average between $600 and $700, according to St. Louis area retailers) and they don't want to be dictated to."

Because brides are older, Deal says, bridal manufacturers and retailers need to offer a wide variety of silhouettes so that the bride who wants a sophisticated look will have the choice of a sheath as well as a full-skirted dress.

The trend toward traditional looks and sophistication means there will be an emphasis on beading, Deal says, "especially diamond crystal and sequin beading. There also will be lots of back detail. It's very important the gown presents a beautiful view from the back because that's what you see down the long church aisle."

Off-the-shoulder treatments continue to be important. Deal says, adding that open necklines often are filled in with a sheer fabric that gives the skin a delicate glow.

More sophistication in wedding dresses also means fewer ruffles on dresses, sleeves that are not quite as puffed and unusual neckline treatments, such as sleeveless dresses with high necks and high-cut shoulders, say Joan Black, who owns Donjon Bridal Ltd. in Brentwood.

Simplicity is the keynote, says Phyllis Bianchi, who heads the House of Bianchi and was in St. Louis at Montaldo's in Plaza Frontenac for a personal appearance recently.

"A girl walking down the aisle just wants to be pretty," Bianchi says. "She doesn't want to look all decked out like a Christmas tree."

In fabrics, taffeta is becoming more popular than satins for wedding dresses, according to Vicki Hagan, senior merchandise manager for J.C. Penney, which has a bridal salon at its North-West Plaza store.

"We're also seeing a decline in lace, and an increase in the use of chiffon and organza," she says.

"Tulle is another fabric that is important in the wedding picture for spring," says B.J. Fischer, bridal consultant for the House of Sharon in Fairview Heights. "It's a very feminine, almost Cinderella look."

Fischer also is seeing greater interest among brides-to-be in pale pastel wedding gowns.

"Each year there is more interest, she says. Last year we saw more sheer white fabric layered over pink. This year the manufacturers are beginning to show all pink and the girls are not shy about coming in and asking for a pink wedding dress."

Headpieces also reflect the more romantic look brides-to-be are requesting.

"They tend to be quite bouffant and have a lot of beading," says Vicki Mertz, assistant manager of the Maiden Voyage store in Chesterfield.

Modern-Day remarriage: a whole new proposal

The spirit of celebration is as important for brides and grooms who have been married before as it is for others.

Bride's magazine offers remarrying couples the following suggestions:

* The bride should feel free to marry in the outfit of her choice. The traditionally simple, cream-colored suit is still lovely — but so is a more ornate-looking and gay gown, a white or your favorite color. The only accessory best omitted is the veil, long a symbol of youth.

Indulge yourself at this special time. Wear an engagement ring. Plan a beauty day at the salon — complete with lavish hair care, facial and manicure.

* If either of you has children, make them as much a part of the celebration as possible.

* Make your reception as extravagant a party as you wish, complete with all the wedding traditions — a receiving line, the "first dance," the ceremonial cutting of the cake, and a champagne toast. Answer your welcome guests is to head up the receiving line yourselves, rather than leaving it up to your parents.

* Don't feel a honeymoon is not necessary. "It's time around the calendar is irrelevant if you have been through it before."

How do you fit in some rest and relaxation when you have children? If possible, plan a trip just for the two of you first, then a "group honeymoon" so you'll all feel like a family.

Couples: budget time for financial planning

Financial woes are the leading cause of marital problems, studies show. Thus, it makes sense for couples about to wed to discuss financial matters, attitudes included, openly and honestly.

In the rush and excitement of planning a wedding, it's easy to put a talk about money on the very bottom of your priority list. But remember that the happiness and security of your union may be at stake. Financial problems can be avoided if you are aware of the paths that lead to them.

When you marry, each of you brings certain assets to the partnership. These can be tangible (income, savings) or intangible (good spending and saving habits, financial goals that are well thought out, a willingness and ability to keep track of money). You may bring differing priorities, in the form of debts or unwillingness to budget and save.

Newly married couples want to live in the lifestyle that they have dreamed about, so it is tempting to overextend. For example, furnishing a home is costly but doing it quickly is much more exciting than postponing purchases until you can establish a financial base. It also can be hazardous, both to your credit standing and to your relationship.

Because of these temptations, it's wise to confer with a representative financial advisor and make worldly arrangements just as you may want to meet with your spiritual leader to prepare for your wedding day. A savings and investment plan that is already in place will be much easier to follow than one you make up as you go along, when the temptation to spend beyond your means is great.

Sit down together and have a long discussion about spending and savings philosophies. If one of you is of the "eat, drink, and be merry" school, while the other wants to sock away every possible penny to guard against all imaginable contingencies, seek a compromise in these mutually exclusive attitudes now.

Be wary of making a commitment to a lifestyle that seems unbelievable. A lifetime's habits cannot be ended through starry-eyed declarations. Changing them requires time and will. Financial irresponsibility is an especially difficult habit to break.

Begin preparing a household budget. There will be blank spaces, and it will have to be modified as you go along, but it is as necessary for financial planning as a road map is to a traveler traversing the continent.

Plan for two categories of savings: long-term savings, which should not touch, except in true emergencies when all other options have run out, and savings for specific goals, such as furniture and vacations.

Bridal gown selection precedes maids' dresses

From the time a woman becomes engaged until she weds, she embarks on a whirlwind journey of exciting experiences, elaborate plans and lots of important decisions.

One of the bride's most important concerns is selecting her bridesmaids and their fashions. The bride should make sure the looks perfect; a bride should pay as much attention to selecting her maid's dresses as she does her own.

The following tips are from a nationwide retailer of women's fashions:

* The bride needs to select her own gown before choosing her bridesmaids' attire. The maid's gowns should reflect the bride's, not the other way around.

* The maid's gowns should be

Don't forget to budget money for leisure and entertainment.

When planning your financial future, think of your household as a business. Pick one of you to be, in essence, the family controller of the personal bills. This person also might be responsible for keeping records necessary for taxes and for determining if your plans are being followed.

Schedule regular meetings to discuss the state of family finances. Many couples discuss money only in times of crisis, when emotions are high and fixing blame frequently takes the place of solving problems. When couples are accustomed to discussing their financial situation, crises are much less likely, because they will have been foreseen and averted. If a crisis does occur, it will be dealt with by partners rather than by opponents.

Plan to meet regularly with your financial consultant. As income grows, your strategies probably will change, and you may need to have children or purchase a home; your entire financial picture probably will alter.

If you already are married and don't have a good financial plan, don't despair. Today is the day to start getting your household in fiscal order. Even if you have done well handling family finances yourself, plan and hold family business meetings. An outside planner can be a source of new perspectives. And almost everyone could stand to improve his or her bookkeeping department. (Maybe it's time to consider the services of an accountant.)

Your wedding day should be among the happiest days of your life. With a little careful planning, it can take place without financial fears — and the days that follow can be happy days, too.

William Barton Sr.

Barton

William L. Barton Sr., 68, of Granite City died at 1:52 p.m. Wednesday, Jan. 17, 1990, at St. Elizabeth Medical Center after a lengthy illness. He had been a patient for two years.

He was born in Kokomo, Ind., and had lived in Granite City for most of his life. Mr. Barton retired in 1977 from Granite City Steel where he had worked in the cold steel department for 23 years.

He was a World War II Navy veteran, a member of the AMVETS and Granite City Eagles Aerie 1126 and served as a shop steward for Local 16, United Steelworkers of America. He was of the Baptist faith.

Survivors include his wife, Charlotte (Hemener) Barton of Granite City; one son, William Barton Jr. of Edwardsville; two daughters, Mrs. Emanuel Biele (Verna) and Mrs. Bruce (Doris) Pope, both of Granite City; two sisters, Anita Wiant of Tepeka, Kan., and June Junten of Pollock Pines, Calif.; her mother, Irene Barton of Tepeka; seven grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Visitation will be from 4 to 8 p.m. today at Irwin Chapel, 3960 Maryville Road, where services will be at 7:30 p.m. Graveside services will be at 10 a.m. Friday at St. John's Cemetery in Granite City with the Rev. Fred Boatwright officiating.

Bork

Ruby (Gentry) Bork, 75, of Apache Junction, Ariz., formerly of Granite City, died Tuesday, Jan. 16, 1990, in Arizona. She had been ill for several years.

Mrs. Bork was born July 14, 1914, in Madison and lived there many years before leaving the area. She graduated from the St. Elizabeth Hospital School of Nursing in Granite City and had worked as a registered nurse. She was of the Lutheran faith.

Survivors include her husband, Edward Bork; four daughters, one brother, James Gentry of California, and five grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. today at Bunker's Desert View Mortuary in Mesa, Ariz.

Kadar

George Kadar, 87, of Granite City, died at 8:05 p.m. Wednesday, Jan. 17, 1990, at St. Elizabeth Medical Center. He had been in ill health and in the hospital since Jan. 5.

He was born Jan. 16, 1903, in Hungary, and had lived in Granite City for 85 years. He retired in January 1984, from GAF, 501 S. 9th St., Chicago, where he had worked for 27 years. Mr. Kadar was a member of Holy Family Catholic Church.

Survivors include his wife, Gladys (Weinlein), whom he married in 1937; one sister, Barbara Granzow of Granite City; and several nieces and nephews.

Visitation will be held from 5 to 8 p.m. Friday, with a wake service at 6:30 p.m., at Davis Funeral Home, 21st Street and Cleveland Blvd. Funeral services will be held at 9 a.m. Saturday at Holy Family Catholic Church, 2600 Washington Ave. Burial will follow at Calvary Cemetery, near Edwardsville.

Novosel

Steve Novosel Jr., 85, of Collinsville, formerly of Madison and Venice, died at 6 p.m. Wednesday, Jan. 17, 1990, at St. Elizabeth Medical Center. Mr. Novosel had been ill for 10 months.

Mr. Novosel was born in Venice and had moved to Madison, where he had resided for 40 years. He had worked for 48 years as a die setter at Nesco in Granite City and had been a member of the United Steelworkers of America. He was of the Roman Catholic faith.

He was preceded in death by his wife, Mary, who died in 1966; and his parents, Steve Novosel Sr. and Caroline Novosel.

Survivors include his daughter, Mrs. Tom (Mary Ann) Greene of Collinsville; two sons, Steve Novosel III of Collinsville and Fred Novosel of Collinsville; one sister, Mrs. Albert (Caroline) Noud of Granite City; five grandchildren; and five great-grandchildren.

Visitation will be after 4:30 p.m. today at Irwin Chapel, 3960 Maryville Road, where services will be held at 1 p.m. Friday. Burial will be in Calvary Cemetery near Edwardsville.

Wright

Mary Rose (Crowell) Wright, 80, of Madison was pronounced dead at 7:35 a.m. Wednesday, Jan. 17, 1989, at her home by Deputy Coroner Handa Irwin. She had been ill for several years.

On July 22, 1909, in Mayfield, Ky., Mrs. Wright retired in 1966 from Simpson's Restaurant, where she had been a cook for 18 years.

She was a member of the Royal Neighbors of America Auxiliary 1900, Venice-Madison American Legion Auxiliary 307 and the American Association of Retired Persons. She was of the Protestant faith.

Survivors include a son, Kenneth L. Bean of Bellwood, Calif.; a daughter, Lois; a sister, Loralee Rose and Freda Gattung, both of Granite City; a sister, Ora Cassidy of Mesa, Ariz.; eight grandchildren and 12 great-grandchildren.

Visitation will be held from 4-9 p.m. Friday at Lahey-Sedlack Funeral Home, 615 Madison Ave., Madison. Services will be conducted at 10 a.m. Saturday. Burial will be at St. John Cemetery, 2901 Nameoki Road.

said. "By staying in the race, I would be able to take natural allies — labor and the Democrats — and hurting the unity needed for a Democratic victory."

Exiting the race also marks his exit from active politics, Hopkins said.

The only thing I'm concerned about politically is, in a year and a half, getting my buddies (Granite City aldermen) Jim Miller and (Paul) Fisk re-elected. Other than that, I'm out of politics," he said.

"I'd like to withdraw from politics," Hopkins said. "While leaving the political field is a personal disappointment, my campaign has been, I believe, a success."

"The decision to withdraw was preceded by free discussions not only with my former opponents but with other members of the Madison County judiciary.

"The precise problems which led to my seeking judicial office have been addressed and I have come away, I think, with a clearer understanding of these concerns, with the assurances of future reforms, (thus) tempering any sense of individual loss with the prospect of a public gain. In this way the campaign, although cut short, has truly been successful."

In a written statement Wednesday, Hopkins said: "While leaving the political field is a personal disappointment, my campaign has been, I believe, a success."

Meanwhile, residents of the cleanup area are being mailed letters inviting them to small group meetings set for Jan. 23, 24 and 25, according to Bradley.

"We want the residents to come to the meetings and to bring along their questions and suggestions," he said. "They know all the little details about their area that we would never

Deanna Frey and Nina Gott

...off to the USSR.

Students need funds for USSR

MADISON — The long flight to the Soviet Union may just be a dry run for two local girls who hope to have careers in the air.

Nina Gott and Deanna Frey, a senior and junior, respectively, at Madison High School, have been accepted as Student Ambassadors to the Soviet Union this summer.

The only catch is the cost. Gott has so far received $700 from the Madison-Venice Rotary Club. Each girl needs about $2,500 for the trip.

Gott wants to become a flight attendant and Frey hopes to join the Marine Corps as a pilot in aerobatics, after high school.

The girls were selected for the trip after an extensive application period. They are to travel through six Soviet cities, speaking to Soviet students, and may have the opportunity to spend a night with a Soviet family.

The trip is not a vacation, both girls stressed, but is rather a serious attempt to promote understanding between the two cultures.

"I hope to get an education — to talk one-on-one with people my age there," said Frey.

The pair have some preconceived ideas about what they will find in the USSR.

"I expect that it's not really clean, and that many of the high schools don't have indoor plumbing," Gott said.

The two want to find out for themselves, though, just what everyday life is like there.

"I'd like to make this a trip to acknowledge the common people more than the government," said Gott. "This is a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity. It's a great trip we'll remember for the rest of our lives."

Blood drives set in area

During January the Red Cross will be conducting blood drives in Granite City open to the public for blood donations.

On Friday, Jan. 19, a blood drive will be sponsored by the Nodle Co. The drive will be held in the conference room on the first floor at 2101 Adams St. and will be conducted from 11:30 a.m. until 4:30 p.m.

The Tri-City Chapter is among those marking National Volunteer Blood Donor Month.

attendance at the public hearing on the cleanup plan scheduled for Feb. 8 at the Granite City Township Hall. He said he would support the current period for Taracorp, ending March 31, is 45 days, rather than the standard 30, because the area is so big and the cleanup has a direct effect on so many people.

That's an understandable perception, according Bradley.

Much of the EPA's work is still in the planning stage, awaiting proposals and other things citizens can't see happening, he said, and in the case of Taracorp there have been a number of state and federal agencies involved over the years.

The Superfund cleanup process can be very slow, he said, with its study, proposal and comment periods. Some sites are given a priority for emergency removal, he said, but the EPA determined the health risk here wasn't great enough to justify it.

A second drive will be conducted Monday, Jan. 22, and will be sponsored by the Tri-City Chapter of the Red Cross. The drive will be held in the new addition area of the Eagles Aerie 1126 Home at 2558 Madison Ave. It will be from 2 to 7 p.m.

know because we don't live there."

Authorities dealing with the Taracorp lead contamination have been accused, over the years, of popping into town every few years with bad news and disappearing, never to be heard from again.

That's an understandable perception, according Bradley.

Madigan to attend Wolf fund-raiser

A fund-raising breakfast for the re-election of state Rep. Sam Wolf, D-Granite City, will feature House Speaker Michael Madigan this morning.

The event will take place from 7:30 to 9 a.m. at St. Gregory's Armenian Hall on West Pontoon Road in Granite City.

Wolf said a number of local and county politicians will be there, and attorney General Neil Hartigan, a candidate for governor, has been invited.

The event is being sponsored by Citizens to Re-elect Sam Wolf, the 11th District representative.

Wolf said Madigan may address local issues.

Downtown

(Continued from Page 1A) has been paved. Lead contaminants falling on asphalt or concrete would long ago have washed away, according to the EPA's Brad Bradley.

But because the contamination around Taracorp took place over a time period stretching back almost to the beginning of the century, Bradley said it is possible some of the soil underneath the asphalt or concrete is contaminated. The EPA has not made an independent test to check that possibility, he said.

What is the status of that contaminated soil if it is exposed during redevelopment?

That's a very interesting question," Bradley said. "We were unaware of the downtown renovation plan when we made the cleanup plan. It's really somewhat of a legal question, as to who would pay for it."

If the redevelopment takes place while the cleanup is taking place, it will be disrupted by adding it to the Taracorp pile as part of the present cleanup plan, Bradley said.

But, he said, if the renovation takes place afterward, the EPA would have to pursue further legal agreements and disposal plans.

Once the EPA completes its Superfund cleanup, Bradley said, the site is no longer listed as a national priority.

Cleanup of the contamination site after that would be considered another project, he said; the site would be resurveyed and the whole process would begin again.

Bradley did not rule out adding some downtown plans to the Taracorp project.

"That's what we have the public comment period, to find out things about the community we don't know," he said. "Like downtown renovation plans."

Matthew 7:7: "Ask, and it shall be given you."

God is only a prayer away. When we have a need all we have to do is pray. God's heart and mind are prayer. He is the one God wants to help you. It is His good pleasure to give unto His kingdom.

Never allow yourself to believe that God is not there. God is a God of love. He cares and He understands. We can find help in times of need if we will only pray.

Let us have faith when we pray. He knows what we need and have need of. Trust God with your life. He can do much better with it than we can.

Convince yourself that God's answer is wiser than our prayers. Believe He is giving what is best for you.

'Glory' exults in striking, complex 'ensemble' acting

There have been few motion pictures that were serious, illuminating treatments of the Civil War, says John W. Griffis' "Birth of a Nation" in 1915. The few that come to mind include "The General" (1927) starring Buster Keaton, "Gone With the Wind" (1939) starring Clark Gable and, in 1955, director John Huston's "The Red Badge of Courage," starring Audie Murphy.

A new addition to that list is "Glory" (*), based on the book "Lay This Laurel" by Alan K. MacEachern, the brilliant Huston by Peter Burchard. It is a striking ensemble piece about the formation in 1862 of the 54th Regiment of Massachusetts Volunteer Infantry, the first African-American unit in the Union Army. By the end of the war, more than 17,000 blacks — about 10 percent of the Union Army's total fighting force — had performed military service.

At a time when Tom Cruise is best known for his breakthrough role as a paralyzed Vietnam vet in "Born on the 4th of July," Matthew Broderick makes what I think is a more important and less explosive breakthrough in "Glory."

Broderick plays Union Col.

Robert Gould Shaw, the true-life 25-year-old abolitionist from a well-to-do, white family in Boston who was selected to form the 54th Massachusetts.

The large, strong cast includes

Morgan Freeman as Rawlins, a no-nonsense volunteer who functions as a kind of role model and conscience for the young men in the regiment, and Denzel

Washington, a proud but hostile black soldier whose heroism elevates him to new personal awakenings.

It would be easy to continue listing the abundant performances in "Glory"; there is not a slouch in the bunch. In fact, the apparent overall dedication to excellence in the making of "Glory" is almost as inspiring as the story itself, which, I think, is one of the reasons this movie works so well.

Patti LaBelle returns to Fox

Patti LaBelle with special guest James Ingram will perform at 8 p.m. Jan. 21 at the Fox Theater, St. Louis.

Ticket prices are $22.50 and $20.50. Tickets are available at the Fox Box Office and all Metro Tix outlets including 21 Schnucks Video centers and Regal Sports. Tickets also may be charged by calling MetroTix at (314) 534-1111.

The script of "Glory" has the story unfolding in successive vignettes that cover the 54th Massachusetts formation, training and first experiences in combat in the South.

In the massive opening scene of "Glory," the film resembles a well-directed, well-rehearsed theatrical production. The uniforms are too clean. The movement of the regiment looks too well planned and the soldiers are without real emotion.

But the idealism and courage of the members of the regiment quickly and dramatically come to the fore. All thoughts of puffery are put aside by the time the film climaxes with the bloody attack on Fort Wagner on July 18, 1863, when the regiment's collective bravery, tenacity and patriotism unfold with brutal realism. (However, there is one unsettling error: the closing credits of the film list the names of the 54th's members in alphabetical order.)

The audience is left agast that a story of such scope could have been so easily swept aside on the pages of American history.

"Glory" deserves a lot of consideration when it comes to the Academy Awards. It is a rare movie that manages to picture its heroes in a manner that is always forthright, emotional, sorrowful and thoroughly absorbing and it seems to be reasonably accurate from an historical perspective.

Rated R (violence). Running time: 122 minutes. Critic's rating based on four stars.

West end girls

Maroons take Lady Warriors to school with 66-43 win

By Dave Whaley
Executive sports editor

BELLEVILLE — When the Lady Warrior basketball players got out of school Wednesday afternoon, class wasn't yet over for the day. The Belleville West Maroons still had a lesson to teach.

It was textbook basketball as the Maroons dominated the Lady Warriors every which way in a 66-43 win at the West gym last night. Granite City had a chance to take over the Southeastern Conference lead, but it was all West as the Maroons improved to 6-0 in conference play and 17-2 overall. The Lady Warriors fell to 5-2 in the conference and 13-3 overall.

"They taught us a lesson," said first-year Lady Warrior coach Allen Lobdell, who no doubt took some homework back with him. "They were real winners all night and that's one thing we didn't show even though we have the seniors."

That's the scary part about the Maroons. Like the Lady Warriors of a year ago, West doesn't have a senior on the roster. But they were extremely patient against Granite City's zone in the first quarter. It was 10-10 at the end of the first. Triefenbach scored in the final minute. Then junior Erin White came down and nailed a three-pointer with three seconds left to make it 9-4. The Lady Warriors never really challenged after that.

"We played very well," said West coach Larry Betz. "I had an uneasy feeling about this all day. Belleville East is the big game for our kids. We've always handled Granite City very easily in past years. But I had to do some talking to convince them that this was a different Granite City."

The girls responded very well. Perhaps the key statistic in the game was rebounding. The Maroons pulled down 29 while the Lady Warriors had only 13. That's not many considering Jennifer Cavaness came into the game averaging 12.5 rebounds all by herself. The senior center led Granite City with 16 points and six rebounds, but West was in complete control the whole way.

"I know the girls are obsessed with beating Belleville," said Lobdell. "I see these girls every day and I know what they're capable of. But they must tense up and they just don't do those things against these teams. There's still that mystique there."

"They took away our best game, which is rebounding. Prairie City's rebounding was just completely shut down by No. 50 (Lynn Crawley)."

Triefenbach led West with 22 points as she made 10 of 15 shots from the field.

"She was tough," said Lobdell. "And it was that same basic spin move that got her all the points."

White has been a point guard up until this year," said Betz. "She's had problems with some things, but she was excellent tonight. She played very well at both ends of the court."

"She was very happy with what we did defensively," said Lobdell. "Their guards didn't score as much as they did in the last game (a 58-42 West win in the Mascoutah Holiday Tournament) semifinals."

"Our zone should be our best defense for getting rebounds. If we can't rebound then, then they're just outplaying us. We were OK for a while, but we're not very deep and they wore us down."

The Maroons shot 59 percent from the floor while the Lady Warriors shot 43 percent. And Granite City only shot two free throws all night, and those came with 53 seconds left in the game. West made 13 of 19 free throws. The Maroons play Belleville East on Friday while the Lady Warriors return to action on Tuesday, also against the Lancers (4-2, 12-5) on the road.

Tuesday in Collinsville, the Lady Warriors barely escaped. Cavaness, Kim Pawlak and Johnson all had 10 points, but Austria Cline scored at the buzzer in overtime for a 62-61 win. Lady Kahok sophomore Tina Brussatti missed two free throws with no time left in regulation.

three age categories: 8-9, 10-11 and 12-13. Entrants must not be older than 13 as of April. Each competitor will shoot. The boy and girl in each age group with the best scores advances through four tiers of competition to qualify for the national finals at Market Square Arena in Indianapolis in April.

Local winners of first, second and third place will receive individual trophies, with all shooters receiving a certificate for participation. Local winners will advance to the district competition in February. National winner's names will be inscribed on the Elks National Hoop Shoot plaque on permanent display in the Watsmith Memorial Basketball Hall of Fame in Springfield, Mass.

For more information, call local hoop shoot director Bob Little at 931-1409 or assistant director Jim McKeahan at 876-6060.

Boys and girls ages 10-14 can also participate in the local level of competition for the 1990 Knights of Columbus International Free Throw Championship.

The local competition will begin at 11 a.m. at the Knights of Columbus, 4225 Old Alton Road in Granite City. The competition is sponsored by the K of C with winners progressing through local, district and state level competitions. Final winners are announced at the K of C international headquarters based on scores from the state competition.

All boys and girls 10-14 are eligible to compete in the specific age divisions. Last year more than 161,000 sharpshooters participated in 2,132 local competitions.

All contestants on the local level will be recognized. Participants will be required to furnish proof of age and have written parental consent. For entry forms or additional information, contact Charles Schneke, Grand Knight of the K of C Council 1098, by calling 876-4661.

Miller Employee of Year

Joseph Miller III of Pontoon Beach was named Employee of the Year for East Side Publications, which publishes the Granite City Press-Record/Journal.

Miller, the Journal circulation manager, was selected by a secret ballot of all East Side Publications employees who selected him based on dedication, service and continued efforts in reaching for excellence.

East Side President and Publisher Rick Jarvis, Illinois general manager for the Suburban Journals, presented Miller with a plaque Dec. 16.

Miller has been employed by East Side Publications for three years. He selected the company's name prior to being promoted to his current position.

His wife, Debbie, is also employed by East Side Publications. They have two daughters: Megan, 6, and Jenna, 4.

Also on Dec. 16, Jarvis presented Valerie Evenden with a plaque recognizing her for 25 years of service. Evenden is a staff writer with the news department.

Straedey salesman of month

Ray Straedey, an advertising account executive with East Side Publications in Granite City, was named Southern Illinois Salesman of the Month for November. It was announced by East Side Publications President and Publisher Rick Jarvis, Illinois general manager for the Suburban Journals.

East Side Publications publishes the Granite City Press-Record/Journal.

The award is given to the top account executive in the five Suburban Journal publication companies in the Southern Illinois region.

Straedey surpassed his November sales goals by a larger percentage than any of the other account executives.

Straedey had previously been named East Side Publications Salesman of the Month several times throughout 1989 and, based on his sales performance, was Salesman of the Quarter for the first two quarters of 1989.

Ben W. Johannpeter and Robert F. Maxwell
... promoted at Granite City Steel

GC Steel announces changes

New position appointments were recently announced for Ben. W. Johannpeter and Robert F. Maxwell by Granite City Steel Vice President and General Manager Bill Swanson and Human Resources Director Roy Paulson.

Johannpeter was appointed to the position of manager-benefits and compensation.

He has held increasingly responsible positions since beginning his career at Granite City Steel in 1967. His most recent position was manager-public relations and governmental affairs.

He and his wife Jenna reside in Granite City. They have two children: Julie and Jim.

Johannpeter replaces Eugene D. Hudson, a 40-year employee who retired Jan. 1.

Maxwell was appointed to manager-public relations and governmental affairs to replace Johannpeter.

In the new position, he will report directly to Swanson.

Since joining Granite City Steel in 1977, Maxwell has held various positions of increasing responsibility. His most recent position was manager-participative process and transition.

Maxwell resides in Granite City with his wife Jean and son David.

Real estate careers explored

Century 21 Dove Realty Inc. is participating in Career Opportunity Week Jan. 15-21.

Throughout the week, individuals with real estate experience, as well as those considering a career change, are being encouraged to visit Dove Realty to learn more about real estate careers. There is no fee or obligation.

For information about the week, persons may contact Ruth Andrews there at 931-7200. A career night will be held there Jan. 25 from 7 to 9 o'clock.

Hollandsworth joins Farmers

Mel Hollandsworth of Granite City has been appointed to represent Farmers Insurance Group of Companies, according to Farmers' District Manager Kevin Thompson.

The Farmers agency operated by Hollandsworth is located at 4083 Pontoon Road in Granite City. It offers auto, fire, life and commercial insurance.

Farmers Insurance Group of Companies agents and district managers are independent local business men and women who represent the insurance organization in communities throughout its operating territory.

Founded in 1928, Farmers Insurance Group of Companies today has more than 12 million policies in force.

It operates in 27 states and has 17 regional offices, 187 branch claims offices, more than 14,000 agents and district managers and more than 15,000 other employees.

Julie Pierce joins Lombardi

Julie Pierce of Belleville has joined the decorating staff of Lombardi Furniture and Interiors, located at 23rd Street and Madison Avenue in Granite City.

Pierce has a degree in interior decorating and is bringing a great deal of both interior decorating and design experience to Lombardi, including carpet, custom drapes, furniture, wall-coverings and accessories.

Previously employed by Dillard's Design Studio, Pierce joins the current Lombardi decorating staff of Kathy Lombardi and Jacinta Albers.

In addition to complementary interior design service, Lombardi offers a free shop-at-home service in a variety of areas including furniture, carpets, lamps, wall decor, custom drapes, mattresses, blinds and shades, wall coverings and paints.

Gorski elected builders VP

Wally Gorski, president of Midwest Title Insurance Inc. of Edwardsville and Belleville and MPS Mortgage Co. of Granite City, was elected vice president of the Home Builders Association of Illinois at the association's annual meeting in Springfield on Dec. 6.

As an officer of the organization, Gorski will be responsible for the Illinois legislative guidance program of the home building industry, as well as the group's educational and public relations efforts.

Gorski is a member of the Madison County Home Builders Association, which represents home building and support industry companies in the county.
